

GLOCAL UNIVERSE FUND

FACTSHEET MARCH 2025

Macroeconomic Update

Despite a very challenging month for many markets, the fund delivered positive returns for investors. Escalating US tariff concerns caused widening in corporate spreads, while UST yields were volatile.

The minor losses in the fixed income allocation were offset by holding on to exposure to equities that were well-positioned for the ongoing market turbulence. Amid the uncertainty, gold continued reaching all-time-highs, which also contributed to the fund's monthly outperformance.

The data, views and forecasts in this document is for information purposes only and shall not be regarded as an offer, solicitation or recommendation for an investment. Past performance is no guarantee of future results. All investments involve risks including the risk of possible loss of principal. The market value of a Fund's portfolio may decline as a result of a number of factors, including adverse economic and market conditions, prospects of securities in the portfolio, changing interest rates, and real or perceived adverse competitive industry conditions. The Fund invests in securities and other investments that may be illiquid, which hold the risk that the securities will not be able to be sold at the time desired by the Fund. The Armenian securities markets have substantially less trading volume than the securities markets of OECD countries. Additionally, the capitalization of the Armenian securities markets is highly concentrated. This combination of lower volume and greater concentration in the Armenian securities markets may create a risk of greater price volatility than in the securities markets of developed economies.
